HOTEL BURNED.

DISASTROUS FIRE AT THE BLUE RIDGE SPRINGS.
The Main Building Gone—Supposed to be the Work of an Incompetent.

Blue Ridge, Va., May 21.—About 2 o'clock on Sunday morning Mrs. Philip Brown, wife of the proprietor of the Blue Ridge Springs, was awakened from sleep by a suffocating fume, and, detecting the odor of something burning, she rushed into the hall, and her scream soon aroused the guests, who proceeded to locate the fire. It was found in a basement room, at the foot of the stairs, and burning the partition wall, which, being of lath and plaster, cracked the flames rapidly above. So quick was the work that Mrs. Brown only saved her trunks. All her bed-room furniture, jewelry, dresses, &c., perished. No escapes were damaged, as no fire had been in that part of the building. It was found that the cause of the fire was a gas lamp, which had been left burning, and which had become overheated, and had set fire to the partition wall.

The fire was a very serious one, and it was a great loss to the proprietor. The building was erected in 1875 at a cost of $20,000, but the loss was estimated at more than $10,000 on the building and furniture. An unusual number of engagements for summer guests had been made.

THE HOWITERS' PIC-NIC.

Accidents and Incidents of the Trip to Providence Forge.

The Richmond Howiters, accompanied by the Howitzer Association and the young ladies, who recently arrived from the festival at the Army, left yesterday morning by the Chesapeake and Ohio road for Providence Forge, where the day was joyously spent in those amusements and occupations peculiar to pic-nics. Of course boating, dancing, foot-ball, and base-ball came in for a larger share of attention than anything else, although it would not be surprising if the Howiters had been content with this (and this opinion was shared by all present) to forget the good things of earth to the commissary officers of the company provided for the occasion, who were in almost constant requisition.

In the afternoon there was a slight accident, which luckily resulted in no serious harm. While a target-practice was in progress, one of the Howiters, who was holding a rifle, was struck in the head by the bullet, which had been fired from a self-loading pistol, which a carriage accident, and the ball struck Mr. Frank, who was near the Howiters, on his head, and passed between two of his toes. A cut shoe and a little blood will cover the loss.

Later in the afternoon while Sergeant Thomas, Starks and wife were walking along the Providence Forge trestle a train came along. They had already gone too far to retreat in time, and they were too far from the other side to go forward before the train would overtake them, so they jumped off the ground—and landed in a bed of coal, causing much amusement to the Howiters.

The party returned to the city last evening about 8 o'clock after a very pleasant day.

Considering the fact that yesterday was Whit-Monday, and that the Howiters had a very early start, their labors on the beach ended before noon. Of the exercises tried the following were the most popular:
